Energy and Environmental Facts

- Research has shown that the majority of spare refrigerators can use 3 to 4 times the energy of newer models.
- A 20-year-old refrigerator or freezer consumes on average 1,500 kilowatt hours annually.
- Proper recycling of the foam insulation and refrigerant in the cooling circuit can prevent the release of up to the equivalent of five tons of CO₂ into the atmosphere.
- JACO recycles about 95% of the materials used to manufacture each refrigerator or freezer and safely disposes of the toxins and ozone-depleting chlorofluorocarbon gases from foam insulation.

This offer is available to residential electric customers of Cowlitz PUD. This offer is limited to two units per residential address. The unit must be owned by the rebate recipient, be in working condition and measure 10 cubic feet or more. A rebate check will be mailed 4-6 weeks after pick-up. ©2009 JACO Environmental
